An Improvement in Nashville That Is Being Built by Indianapolis Men.

Brainerd Rorison has just returned from Nachville, Tean. He says that Harry Adams and his partner Whitsett, who are putting in a lystem of water-works for that city, are in a fair way to make a snug sum out of their contract. They are to do the work for $100,000, and the prospects are that they will realize out of it something in the neighborhood of one-fourth the amount. The water-works, when completed. will be among the finest in the country. The reservoir is to be located on the spot formerly occupied by General Harrison's regiment in the campaign around Nashville—Fort Negley—a high rocky plateau about two miles from the city. The reservoir will be cut out of the rock, will be 600 feet long by about 200 feet wide—making when complete one of the finest that making when complete one of the finest that sould possibly be secured, and as durable as the stone in which it is built. Mr Rorison describes Mr. Adams as "bossing about 300 men, running two or three engines, directing a score or two of teams, besides attending to numerous small matters at the same time. During this time—in the midst of all these business details, he finds opportunity to soliloquize over all the war relies he runs across in the way of flattened bullets, rusty canteens and broken arms. According to Mr. Rorison Nashville is experiencing a very rapid growth and is making many public improvements. It is attracting a good deal of Northern capital and bids fair to be one of the most prominent and prosperous cities of the new South.

THE STATE'S GREAT WEALTH

It Is Represented in a Variety of Products from Diamonds to Natural Gas.

Resources of Coal, Stone and Fire-Clay-In the Counties of Morgan and Brown a Considerable Value in Gold Has Been Found.

Indiana is a rich State in almost every particular. As a farming and grain-raising State it is, as the statistics show, unsurpassed. In point of mineral wealth, also, it has a fine showing. Though the deposits of some minerals are not so large as in other States, still it has great variety and its resources in this respect are not the least part of its wealth. Prof. John Collett has just completed an examination into the mineral fields. He finds that the area of the Indiana coal fields is about 7,000 square miles, coal being found in seventeen counties. The block soal fields cover about 600 square miles. This coal is mined most extensively at Brazil and Carbon, in Clay county. Coking bituminous scal is extensively mined in all these seventeen counties -Warren, Fountain, Vermillion, Parke, Vigo, Clay, Sullivan, Green, Davis, Dubois, Pike, Perry, Spencer, Knox, Gibson, Vanderburg and Posey. Underlying the great beds of coal is a large amount of fine fire-clay, the deposits being from three to twelve feet thick and yielding a material sui table for pottery and terra cotta purposes. Near Attica and Cevington, Fountain county; Clinton and Hillsdale, Vermillion county; Montezuma and Bloomingdale, Parke county; Terre Haute, New Harmony, Boonville and Huntingsburg, and in many places in Sullivan and Clay counties some especially fine clay is found. This has already been used by the Indianapolis potteries, the United States encaustic tile-works and the terra cotta works at Brightwood-two establishments whose wares are known all over the country.

So far as stone is concerned the State is also rich, both in variety and quality. Indiana limestone is unexcelled anywhere. There is a fine bydraulic quality quarried in the lower part of the State in Clark and Harrison counties; also some deposits in Wabash county. This limestone has been used in making a superior quality of hydraulic coment and is a valuable mineral deposits in the State. Magnesium limestone of a superior grade is also found in a number of counties, notably Huntington, Wabash, Cass, Jennings, Howard, Delaware, Madison, Jasper, White, Hamilton, Miami, Shelby, Decatur and Carroll. The colitic deposite in the counties of Mooroe, Owen, Lawrence, Washington, word and Harrison are very fine. Some new and extensive mines are being opened out in these sections, and the quality of the stone is said by experts to be excellent. A good quality of flagging is found near Laurel, Wabash, St. Paul, Greensburg and Putnamville, these deposits ranging from three to eight inches thick. The Putnamville quarries produce a limestone very valuable for all bulding purposes, being highly silicious and therefore proof against frost, fire and all kinds of weather. Griedstones and whetstones are also among the products of Indiana quarries, a superior quality of the former being mined in Orange, Lawrence, Harrison, Warren and Crawford counties. The French Lick quarries in Orange county produce what is known throughout the country as the celebrated "Hindostan whetstone." It is regarded as the finest thing of its kind in the market for use on fine cutlery and fine tools of all kinds. The principal stone quarries of the State are located at Ellettsville, Greencastle, Spencer, Bedford, Wabash, Logansport, Kokomo, Laurel, St. Paul, North Vernon, Salem, New Albany, Mauckport and Anderson.

Perhaps very few people know that gold has been found in any quantity in the State. There has, however, been $30,000 extracted in the counties of Morgan and Brown, and what is perhaps less widely known, diamonde have been found among the mineral deposits of the State, five having been taken from a drift near Martinsville, Morgan county. Two of them are very bright and clear.

Among the other mineral deposit there is a fine quality of white sand, which is used in the eral deposit in the State. Magnesium lime-

Among the other mineral deposit there is a fine quality of white sand, which is used in the manufacture of glass, especially at the DePauw glass-works, at New Albany; fine deposits of red and yellow othre, from which paints of many colors are made; common salt, iron and copper in limited quantities.

Of all the wealth that is being taken from the earth at present, perhaps natural gas is going to prove the most valuable to the State. It exists in a broad belt, being found in no less than twenty-two counties. The following is a list of the most prominent wells and their product in cubic feet per day of twenty-four hours:

Among the products of the State is petroleum, which occurs in a great many of the deep bores in and near the natural-gas belt. There are good oil wells in Case, Pulaski and Blackford counties. It will be seen from the summary of these resources that Indiana is destined, in time, to become one of the wealthiest, most prosper-ous, and most thickly populated States in the

To-night the Council will open the bids for lighting the city by electricity. It is highly probable that there will not be over three or four filed. The Thompson-Houston and the Brush companies will be the main competitors.

Stone, a new journal for producers, workers and users of stone, marble and granite, made its appearance Saturday. The editors are D. H. Ranck and L. H. Gibson, while Marcus Gardiner is business manager. It is well printed and abounds in illustrations of interest to the class which it proposes to reach.

Industrial and Trade Notes. The cradle and snath-works, of North Indianapolis, are again pushing business. Orders are coming in freely.

to keep it busy until December 1, should it receive no more. Chandler & Taylor report a large demand for their engines. Last week they shipped four complete outfits, which include boilers, to Ar-kaasse, and one to Newton, Mass.

The E. C. Atkins Saw Company is so pressed with orders that in a portion of its works the men are working overtime. The demand for band saws is beyond that of any former period, and indicates that in some parts of the country they are taking the place of circular saws to a

The Indianapolis Cabinet Company last week shipped a car-load of deeks to Los Angeles, Cal., one to Austin Tex., another to Colorado, and three to New York to fill export orders. C. A. Potts & Co., manufacturers of clay ma-chinery, last week received orders for mills from six different States. This year promises to be the busiest one in the history of the works. The water-works, when running by steam, use about twelve tone of coal per day. As soon as natural gas is available at the works it will be introduced and will out down the cost of furnishing water largely. Dean Bros. are making for the Lady Ensley furnace, Sheffield, Als., the largest duplex pump that they have turned out. It will deliver a twelve-inch stream of water, and has a capacity of 2,000 gallons per minute.

It is expected that the new clip of wool will begin to come on to the market this week. Un-washed wool, in good condition, will bring 20 to 22 cents per pound, which is 3 to 4 cents under prices at the opening of the season in 1887.

The United States wire-nail mills expect to begin work on new buildings by the 20th of this month. In the present establishment 400 kegs of nails per day are turned out. It is contemplated to increase the output to 1,000 kegs per day.

The Saulsbury paper mill is running to its full capacity. About 60 per cent. of its product goes to Texas and Florida, and the balance of it to Northwestern points. Three papers in Nebraska are printed on paper furnished by this mill.

The Consolidated Tank-line Company is making improvement to its establishment which will cost $2,000 or more. This has become an important distributing point for oils, and the discovery of natural gas, it is thought, will not in the least curtail the demand for them.

The Indianapolis cotton-mill is hereafter to be known as the Indiana warp-mill It is now producing forty warps per day, a large per cent. of which go to Southern cotton-mills. Indianapolis is credited with having one of the finest mills of this description west of the Alleghenies. The flouring-mills are running only about one-half their capacity. There is a good demand now for flour, especially for export, but millers flud it very difficult to get wheat to keep them running, the supply being the lightest in many years. The Acme Company is running but one

The Parry Cart Company has just completed an addition to its works 100 feet in length by 50 in width, which is to be used as a painting and varnishing room. In this department alone 56 men are employed. A gentleman from Montana was here last week, who thinks if the pose of one-third its annual product in that part of the country.

C. H. Gillette, bent-wood and wagon material manufacturer, who now occupies the old Shaw earriage-works building, on Shelby street, has purchased several acres of ground on the West Side, near Elevator B, on which he will erect a building, three stories high, 150 feet in length by 60 in width. He now gives employment to 130 men, but when he gets his new buildings up, proposes to work 200 or more.

The Indianapolis Bolt and Machine Company is building a machine for cutting cut box material. It will cut the lumber from a size needed for a cigar-box to that for a box eight feet square. The machine will cost in the neighborhood of $12,000, and it is expected that it will cut out material sufficient to make 50,000 boxes a day or more. It is especially adapted to cutting thin material, such as veneering.

The Indianapolis Bolt and Machine Company. which a few months ago started on rather a limited scale, has become one of the most active industries. It already gives employment to sixty-five men. Last week it shipped a couple of car-loads of large bolts to Waverly, on the Lake Erie & Western road, to be used in a large bridge that rathway company is building across one of the most troublesome streams on the line.

Mr. C. Delano, who was Secretary of the Interior under the Grant administration, is living a quiet life on a model farm near Mount Vernon, O. His place is known far and near as an extremely beautiful one, being kept in a degree of style only possible with large means. He is at present erecting a model roller-process flouring-mill, the machinery of which is being made for him at the Nordyke & Marmon works, of this city

Fletcher & Thomas report things rushing in their line. They are now loading five complete heavy steam Quaker brick-machine outfits for shipment to different points, three going to California. Within the past two weeks they have completed the equipment and starting of three large brick-yards with the most approved machinery—one at Norfolk, Va., one near Decatur, Ala., and one at Big Stone Gap, Va.—and since starting one of these parties has ordered a second complete outfit

An Interesting Belic Discovered While the Ripple men were trenching in Pearl street, alongside Ryan, The Hatter's, they came upon an old oak stump, which had been planted there as the exact center of the city, as it was originally donated by the government to the State as a site for a capital city. Events thus show that Ryan, The Hatter, is the center of all things pertaining to the hat business.

CONTROLLED BY WRONG MEN

The Local Union Labor Party, Managed by Greenbackers, Elects Delegates.

Signs of Serious Differences at the Approaching Cincinnati Convention-The Interest in the West Indianapolis Election.

THE GREENBACKERS IN CONTROL. Thomas M. Gruelle Retires from the Local

Management of the Labor Party. The division of the Union Labor party of Indisnapolis three weeks ago over the nomination of a legislative ticket is not going to be healed before the national convention meets at Cincinnati on the 15th inst., and the indications are that the trouble which originated here on account of the old Greenbackers usurping the management of the party will result in a disruption at Cincinnati. When the Greenbackers, led on by William Patterson and Alfred Jennings, captured the recent convention and nominated a ticket, after driving the representatives of organized labor out of the room and ignoring the advice of Thomas Gruelle, chairman of the national committee, and others, those who had been foremost in the work of organizing the party in Indiana refused to have anything more to do with it. Therefore there were no real Union with it. Therefore there were no real Union Labor party representatives at the so-called mass-meeting held yesterday afternoon in Turner Hall to select two delegates to represent the Seventh district in the national convention. The representatives of the Knights of Labor and trades-unions, were absent. Eleven persons only were present, and nine of those were Greenbackers. William P. Smith and John Medert were chosen as the delegates. Both are pronounced Greenbackers, and have little or no pronounced Greenbackers, and have little or no sympathy with the Union Labor party. After they were selected Thomas M. Gruelle resigned as chairman of the district committee, and Alfred Jennings, in political sympathy with the controlling element, was elected to succeed him. "It is my purpose," said Mr. Gruelle last even-ing, "to resign the chairmanship of the national committee at the Cincinnati convention, and L. F. McDonald, of Springfield, O., will also hand in his resignation as secretary."
"What do you think will be the outcome of the convention?" the reporter asked.

"It is hard to tell. The Greenbackers are the great obstacle in the way of success. They seem determined to capture the convention, and, if they do, the ticket put out will not represent the principles of the Union Labor party. There will be an effort made to combine forces and to accomplish our work harmoniously. The great trouble is going to be in harmonizing the Greenback ideas with the laudtax theory of the Eastern delegates who will be present. The delegates from Indiana will be in favor of a union of forces if possible. If the present troubles can be healed the party may present a very formidable front next fall. If they are not it will amount to nothing." great obstacle in the way of success. They nothing."

"Will the country be well represented at the convention?" "I think so. The indications are that there will be a very strong turnout from the East, and also from west of the Mississippi river. There should be 1,200 delegates in the convention, but so far I have only received official notification of the selection of delegates in Pennsylvania and Kansas. I know, however, that delegates have been selected in several other States. There was a bolt in the Illinois State convention. Half the delegates want out beconvention. Half the delegates went out be-cause no agreement could be reached whereby there could be a fusion with the Democratic party. Indiana will be fully represented."

"Who are the probable nominees of the con-

"For President, A. J. Streeter, of Illinois, seems to be the favorite. In fact, he is about the only man spoken of now and I have no doubt but that he will be nominated. I think he is the best man that could be selected. Richard Trevellick, of Detroit, Mich., will likely be nominated for vice-president. Like Streeter, he seems to have no competitor."

"What about the platform?"

"It is difficult to say what it will contain. Its make-up will depend largely upon how the present factional troubles in the party are settled. An effort will be made to devise a plank on which both the McGlynn men and those who do not favor his land-tax ideas may unite."

ELECTIONS IN THE SUBURBS. Three Tickets Presented to the Voters of West Indianapolis. To-day elections will take place in the various suburbs of the city, in Haughville, in West Indianapolis and Brightwood. There is considerable interest being manifested in these contests, especially in that of West Indianapolis, where there are three tickets in the field, the Republican, the Democratic and the citizens' ticket. Those who are supporting the citizens' ticket claim there has been some extravagance in the management of the town affairs, that there has been discrimination in the work of some of the present officials and that the running of the schools has not been satisfactory to the citizens east of the Belt road. The gentlemen on the ticket announce their intention of remedying the alleged abuses. They pledge also some rereduction in the salaries of the officers if elected. The trouble, it is understood, is largely due to a squabble over the location of a school building. It seems that the town at present is provided with but one building, which is situated across the Belt railroad. The school patrons of the third district. by Mr. Alonzo A. Zion, petioned the board last year, requesting that a new house should be built, and that it should be erected on ground between the Belt road and the river. They aleged that the present situation is very unsatisfactory and inconvenient to them because of the distance their children have to walk and the risk they run in crossing the railroad. They argued that the town ought to have two

They argued that the town ought to have two houses, because when contagious diseases get into the school as they do nearly every year, two buildings will be of great benefit in allowing the school to go on; also in ease one building should be destroyed by fire, another one will be left. They also claimed that the growth of the town made a new building necessary, and that the best place for the location was the one they had selected. They urged further in support of their proposition that Mr. Nicholas McCarty would donate ground worth $1,500, and Nordyke & Marmon and the Woodburn-Sarven Wheel Company would contribute $250 each, provided the building is built between the railroad and the river. There is considerable feeling over the river. There is considerable feeling over the contest. The following are the tickets: Republican—Councilman, First ward, John Herig; Second ward, Gayton Davidson; treasurer, William Ryan; clerk, Wm. Hardy; marshal, George Colvin. Democratic ticket—Councilman, First ward, William Shinn; Second ward, John Griffin; treasurer, John A. Jennings; clerk, Chas. E. Golding; marshal, Charles Shell. Citizens' ticket—Councilman, First ward, Wm. Judson, jr.; Second ward, John Griffin; treasurer, John G. Koeppin; clerk, D. A. Williamson; marshal, Charles Shell. The last ticket includes four Republicans and two Democrats. the Democrats being taken from the regular Democratic ticket. Coy Manages the Jail.

At 10 o'clock last night, when a Journal reporter called at the county jail to ascertain i Bernhamer had been brought back from the penitentiary to testify in the conspiracy case, Simeon Coy, with a political friend, was sitting on the side-walk in front of the surnkey's office, contentedly smoking a cigar. No officer was in sight, and the door leading to the jail was locked on the inside. "Yes; this is a firstclass hotel," said Sim, in answer to a suggestion. "I don't want any better. I never felt better in my life. Dr. Alexander has been finding some fault, but so far as I am concerned I am perfectly satisfied. We have the advantage over other hotels in that we do not receive a boarder unless he comes properly recommended.

The other day a young fellow from the country wanted to go through and see the prisoners, but I told him I couldn't let him in unless he was recommended," and Sim chuckled as natural as he used to do when he had carried an election.
